- Good evening to all of you who are here today.

I would like to thank the Italian Ambassador to Denmark, Stefano Queirolo Palmas; the Cultural Advisor of the Italian Embassy to Denmark, Fabio Ruggirello; and the Institute for Italian Culture for organizing the event "Building up Basilicata. A one-century portrait of work and education through a collection of original photos".

The proposed photographic path depicts Europe's intervention in one of its poorest regions and the impact of such an action in rebalancing the local economy.

The Basilicata region has grown also thanks to the European Funds, which have contributed to the adoption of models for modern development that offer opportunities for economic growth and social integration to the resident population.

Basilicata in-between poverty and development

Basilicata was one of the regions in Europe that were lagging behind and, also thanks to EU Funds, has managed to develop:

- A new and advanced agricultural system
- A modern industrial automotive model
- An integrated system of services and research
- A better quality of social life

The photographic exhibition documents the historical route from what it once was to the present day.

Basilicata in-between development and innovation. History recovered through photography

The exhibition is divided into four sections:

- Ancient Jobs - Continuity between past and present
- Basilicata under construction - Dedicated to training
- From training schools to the European Social Fund - The first businesses since the beginning of the 20th century to the present day
- Contemporary gazes - Work and training through the shots of contemporary photographers from Basilicata
